Pesticide Traces Found in Turkeys

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Arkansas Valley Industries Inc. announced Tuesday that traces of the powerful pesticide heptachlor had been found in 34,000 more of its live turkeys that have undergone testing.

This brings to 124,000 the number of turkeys found contaminated with the pesticide. A total of 300,000 AVI birds were checked.

It had been reported earlier that of 150,000 checked up to that time 90,000 showed residue of the pesticide. AVI said all live turkeys had now been checked.

It has said the pesticide was spread on turkey ranches last spring to control chiggers and that this was the source of contamination.

AVI said the contaminated birds had been transferred to ranches that hadn't been treated with the pesticide and were now on a controlled diet, new in the turkey business, that has been successful in eliminating residues of pesticide from commercial laying hens.

The company said it would be necessary to keep the turkeys on the special diet for about 21 days before its effectiveness can be determined.

AVI said that more than 700,000 pounds of already processed turkey meat had been found free of the pesticide and have been released. A total of 3.3 million pounds is to undergo testing.

The company said stockholders of George H. McFadden & Brother Inc., a Memphis-based cotton merchandiser, would meet Friday to consider whether to approve a merger with AVI.

McFadden has the option under the merger to terminate the agreement if there are any changes in AVI's business, but Mr. and Mrs. Sanford F. McFadden management has said it will recommend that the merger be approved, AVI said.

Congressman David Pryor of Washington speaks to rural mail carriers meeting at the Town and Country Restaurant Saturday night.

VIP's at the Rural Mail Carriers meeting: Charles Edwards, state secretary of Judsonia; Jerry Boles, former state president of Hot Springs; J.L. Reeves, president of the 6th district of Leola; Congressman David Pryor of Washington, D.C. and guest speaker; Woodrow Williams, state president of Hattiesville; Charles Blakley, president of 4th district of Okolona; T. Haynes, state vice president of Lake Village; D.L. Holbrook, state treasurer of Nashville.

Congressman David Pryor was the guest speaker at a joint meeting of the fourth and sixth district Rural Mail Carriers Association in Hope Saturday night, November 15.

Congressman Pryor discussed pending legislation regarding postal service and provided copies of the civil service retirement bill, recently passed, which members could read.

"About 90 per cent of the American people never write their congressmen during their lifetime," he said. "Then it is expected that by some process such as gazing into a crystal ball that we know what they want."

He assured his audience that despite some publicity "that we have a good congress which wants to do the right thing, but sometimes it takes a long time to get there."

Finally, the congressman challenged the 81 visitors to count their blessings so that they might find a new source of unity for which we all search.

Charles Blakley, 4th district president, presided at the meeting at which reports of the state meeting and future plans were made.

Speck of Land Poses a Big Problem

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—A real-estate lawyer's battle with New York tax collectors over a speck of backyard land on Staten Island was transformed today in the Supreme Court into an ominous economic threat to organized religion.

Frederick Walz, an almost invisible lawyer who lives with a number of dogs and cats in a Bronx apartment, caused the high court to seriously consider for the first time whether the Constitution forbids states to exempt churches and synagogues from real estate taxes.

There's a lot riding on the outcome besides constitutional theory.

Some $79.5 billion in religious property could be opened to taxation—$726 million worth in New York state alone—if Walz wins.

Walz had help only from the American Civil Liberties Union, which helped him prepare his case.

Arrayed against Walz were New York city and state, 36 other states, the National Council of Churches, the United States Catholic Conference and other major religious organizations.

J. Lee Rankin, corporation counsel of New York City and U.S. solicitor general from 1956 to 1961, asked the court to throw out Walz' claim that the First Amendment forbids an exemption from real estate taxes for buildings that are used entirely for religious purposes.

Walz, a lawyer who does not have a telephone at home and will not answer the one in his Manhattan office, began asserting this claim from the time he bought his 22-by-29 foot parcel in June 1967.

The property, assessed at $100, has some trees and bushes but no buildings and no access to any street. In a summons served on the city's tax commission Walz registered his basic complaint: that by paying a $5.24 a year property tax he was being forced to indirectly support the churches and synagogues that are exempt from taxes.

The issue, obviously, is considerably more sophisticated.

The Supreme Court, on several occasions, has declared that "no tax in any amount, large or small, can be levied to support any religious activities or institutions, whatever they may be called, or whatever form they may adopt to teach or practice religion."

But, at the same time, the court has said the First Amendment "requires the state to be a neutral in its relations with groups of religious believers and nonbelievers; it does not require the state to be their adversary."

The first statement is taken as support of Walz' position; the second is taken by defenders of tax exemptions as authority and justification for continuing exemptions.

Rankin told the court the same New York tax law that exempts churches and synagogues from real estate taxes also exempts other "nonprofit charitable organizations," such as hospitals, cemeteries, mental institutions and public playgrounds.

"The elimination of exemptions for church properties would be a departure from the policy of neutrality," he said.

"Exemption from taxation," he said, "permits all churches to co-exist on an equal basis."

Links Beating to Visit of a Woman

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A former inmate at Tucker Prison Farm testified Tuesday that he was beaten because he called another inmate into the office of Jim Bruton to receive a woman visitor.

Robert Kendig, 30, of Little Rock said he called the inmate, Winston Talley, when he overheard Bruton making advances toward the woman. Kendig said he was Bruton's secretary at the time of the alleged incident in 1966.

Kendig was the last of 11 former Tucker inmates who were called in Bruton's U.S. District Court trial on 10 indictments that he abused the civil rights of inmates during the time he was superintendent of the prison unit.

Kendig said Bruton struck him with a cane and ordered Ernest L. Fletcher, a former warden, to whip him on the buttocks with a leather strap. Kendig said Bruton was present during the beating and "was like a crazy man."

A number of other former inmates testified Tuesday about receiving beatings.

Jerry Dean Ivens, 25, said he was beaten on Bruton's orders because he had written a letter to his mother in which he complained of prison conditions.

R. A. Elbott Jr. of Pine Bluff, Bruton's attorney, asked Ivens if the letter complied with postal regulations. Ivens said it was a "legal letter" but that "it might be against Jim Bruton's law."

David Lasley, 23, said he witnessed Ivens' beating. He said Ivens was whipped on his naked buttocks.

John Tolliver, 26, now living in California, told the court that he and three others who attempted to escape were whipped by Bruton. Tolliver said he was hit numerous times with a leather strap.

"It would take a pretty good man to do that," Elbott said.

"Capt. Bruton was a pretty good man," Tolliver replied.

Charles Kennedy, 25, also a former Tucker inmate now serving time in Tennessee, said Bruton beat him with the wooden end of a leather strap because he tried to attack an inmate who was attempting to extort money from him. He said trustees beat him numerous times with broom handles and a rubber hose over a six-day period.

Kennedy said he received a gash on his leg. An "inmate doctor" sewed up his wound without using anesthetics, Kennedy said.

He testified that he was forced to tell the inmate "It felt good" after each stitch was sewn into his leg.

Kennedy said "life was cheap" in the prisons and that "authorities made it that way." He said those running the prisons "were more interested in money than human beings."

Dallas Mays, 24, of Joliet, Ill., testified that Bruton knocked him down a flight of stairs and beat him because he tried to mail a letter for another inmate. Bob McDaniels, 29, of Oklahoma City said Bruton knocked him to the floor with a doubled up leather strap and then administered 25 lashes.

Walter King Jr. of Fort Smith testified that Bruton beat him in a prison field because a trustee said King wasn't working fast enough.

King said Bruton "kept getting more upset or mad" and that when he tried to get up from the ground Bruton kicked him, loosening his jaw teeth.

Elbott produced a letter written by King's mother about $50 she sent her son before the alleged incident to pay for a set of false teeth. King said he lied to his mother to get the money.

Smith's decision to vote for confirmation tipped the balance in an Associated Press survey to 41 senators supporting the nomination compared to 40 against. The other 19 remain publicly uncommitted.

Smith, who was appointed to the Senate to succeed the late GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen, said last month that a "shadow had been cast" on Haynsworth's record as chief judge of the 4th U.S. Court of Appeals and he could not vote for confirmation.

But Smith said Tuesday that after careful study he is convinced conflict-of-interest charges against the South Carolina jurist were "based on half-truths and misrepresentations."

Benton County Voters Reject Airport Bonds

BENTONVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Benton County voters Tuesday rejected a two-mill tax to help finance a $5 million regional airport in cooperation with Washington County.

With all but one small box counted, the vote was 4,820 for the levy to 6,597 against.

The issue had to pass in both Benton and Washington counties. Last September Washington County voters approved it overwhelmingly.

This was the second vote in Benton County. The vote last September was 4,286 for to 4,733 against.

The proposed all-weather airport would have been located near Tontitown about five miles west of Springdale just south of the Benton County line. The new airport would have been capable of handling all jet traffic.

Lose 10 Lbs. In 10 Days On New Grapefruit Diet

This is the revolutionary new grapefruit diet that everyone is suddenly talking about. Literally thousands upon thousands of copies have been passed from hand to hand in factories, plan offices throughout the U.S. and Canada. Word of its success has spread like wildfire, because this is the one diet that really seems to work for most overweight people. A well known Toronto columnist recently praised it to the skies. He reported losing 20 pounds quickly and easily long after he despaired of ever getting down to his wartime weight of 165 pounds. All this without cutting out the occasional beer or rye. If it is followed exactly the average overweight person should lose 10 pounds in 10 days. There will be no weight loss in the first four days. But you will suddenly drop 5 pounds on the 5th day. Thereafter you will lose one pound a day until the 10th day. Then you will lose 1½ pounds every two days until you get down to your proper weight. Best of all there should be no hunger pangs. Now revised and enlarged, this new diet plan lets you stuff yourself with foods that were formerly "forbidden."

Such as big steaks, trimmed with fat, Southern fried chicken, rich gravies, mayonnaise, lobsters, swimming in butter, bacon, fats, sausages and scrambled eggs. You can eat until you are full, until you cannot possibly eat any more. And still you should lose 10 pounds in the first ten days, plus 1½ pounds every two days thereafter until your weight is down to normal. The secret behind this new "Quick weight loss" is not generally known.

Fat, it has been theorized, does not form fat. Perhaps fat fights fat. And the grapefruit juice in this new diet might act as a catalyst (the "trigger") to start the fat burning process. You stuff yourself on the permitted foods listed in the diet plan, and still lose unsightly fat and excess body fluids. When the fat and bloat are gone you will cease to lose weight, and your weight will remain controlled. A copy of this new and startlingly successful diet plan can be obtained by sending $2 to

Unconditional money-back guarantee. If after trying the diet plan you have not lost 7 pounds in the next 7 days, another 6 pounds in the next 7 days, and 1½ pounds every two days thereafter, simply return the diet plan and your $2 will be refunded, promptly, and without any strings attached. Try out this new diet plan now to regain the trim attractive figure of your youth while eating delicious hearty breakfasts, lunches and dinners under no time pressure. Would Scrap Democrat Party Rules

By ROBERT SHAW
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Charles D. Matthews, chairman of the state Democratic party, thinks that party rules on qualifications for running and voting in the Democratic primaries are unconstitutional and should be scrapped.

Matthews said Tuesday the rules might discourage otherwise qualified voters from exercising their right to vote and otherwise qualified candidates from seeking office.

He asked James Blair of Springdale, the party's general counsel, for an opinion. Blair is to study the rules and, if he concurs, Matthews says he will ask the State Committee at its meeting Saturday to hold the rules in abeyance until the state convention meets next year.

The convention meets after the primaries next year. Matthews was asked if he was suggesting that the rules be suspended as an inducement to those who voted for George Wallace's presidential candidacy last year to return to the Democratic fold.

"It is an attempt by our party to operate under constitutional rules," Matthews said.

Relaxation of the rules could also mean that persons who voted for candidates other than Democrats last year could run for office in the Democratic primaries.

About 238,000 Arkansans voted last year for Wallace.

Matthews said he feared the rules on qualifications of voters violated the due process clauses of the 14th Amendment of the U.S. Constitution and the state Constitution.

The party adopted in 1968 rules that would prevent a person from filing as a Democratic candidate next year if he didn't support Democratic nominees in 1968. Under the rules, election officials could also question voters about their loyalty to Democratic candidates in 1968.

Matthews also said inadequate notice of the rules in advance of the 1968 general election was given registered voters, Democratic officeholders and potential candidates for Democratic nomination who might be affected by the rules.

He said this wouldn't justify invocation of the penalties in the 1970 Democratic primaries.

Jim Johnson, national committeeman for the American Party of Arkansas, appealed Monday for repeal of the rules changes adopted in 1968. Johnson said he wouldn't be eligible to run for Democratic nomination even under the old rules, but that Wallace voters shouldn't be prohibited from seeking Democratic nomination.

Johnson said he wouldn't be eligible to run for Democratic nomination even under the old rules, but that Wallace voters shouldn't be prohibited from seeking Democratic nomination.

He said he wasn't qualified because he voted for his wife Virginia and not the party nominee for governor, Marion H. Crank, in the general election.

Matthews said he had been studying the rules for about a week. He said he began to review them when it appeared that "a number of candidates and voters perhaps would not participate in our primaries, being apprehensive of their right to participate, and upon reviewing the circumstances in which the party rules were adopted right before the 1968 general election."

Says Negroes Don't Want Responsibility

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Mayor Robert Cope of Forrest City said Tuesday that the majority of Negroes didn't want to be "a responsible citizen of the community."

Speaking to the Arkansas Municipal League convention, Cope said the majority didn't want "to compete against the white man . . . to meet any qualifications, no matter what the job is."

The mayor said that during a Negro boycott of white merchants in Forrest City this year he was contacted twice by Negro civil rights workers who told him pickets would be withdrawn if he would sign a statement saying he believed in "justice for all."

Cope said he refused because the Negroes were seeking "social justice" and that he didn't believe in some of the things that come under the heading of "social justice." He said he believed in equality of opportunities, however.

Highlights of Flight of Apollo 12

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP)—Here are highlights of the sixth and seventh days on Apollo 12's flight to the moon, all times Eastern Standard: Wednesday, Nov. 19

6:02 a.m.—Astronauts Charles Conrad Jr. and Alan L. Bean, on the moon's Ocean of Storms, begin first of two moon walks. Conrad exits through hatch, then a television camera is activated to show him descending to surface. Astronaut Richard F. Gordon Jr., meanwhile, continues to orbit the moon, taking care of Apollo 12 command ship.

6:32 a.m.—Bean exits Intrepid lander craft and descends to the surface. He and Conrad spend the next three hours taking pictures, deploying scientific experiments and gathering rocks.

9:18 a.m.—Bean, then Conrad, re-enter Intrepid and close hatch.

10:20 a.m.—Astronauts begin one-hour eating period, put new batteries and oxygen in life-supporting backpacks in preparation for second moon walk, then string up hammocks inside Intrepid for rest period.

12:14 p.m.—Start of nine-hour sleep period.

9:17 p.m.—Conrad and Bean end sleep period, start one-hour eating period, then prepare for second moon walk.

Thursday, Nov. 20

12:32 a.m.—Lander's hatch is re-opened and Conrad, then Bean, exit to start the second moon walk. During next three hours and 15 minutes, they gather rocks—documenting photographically the position of each on the surface—and walk to Surveyor 3 spacecraft to clip off pieces of it to return to earth.

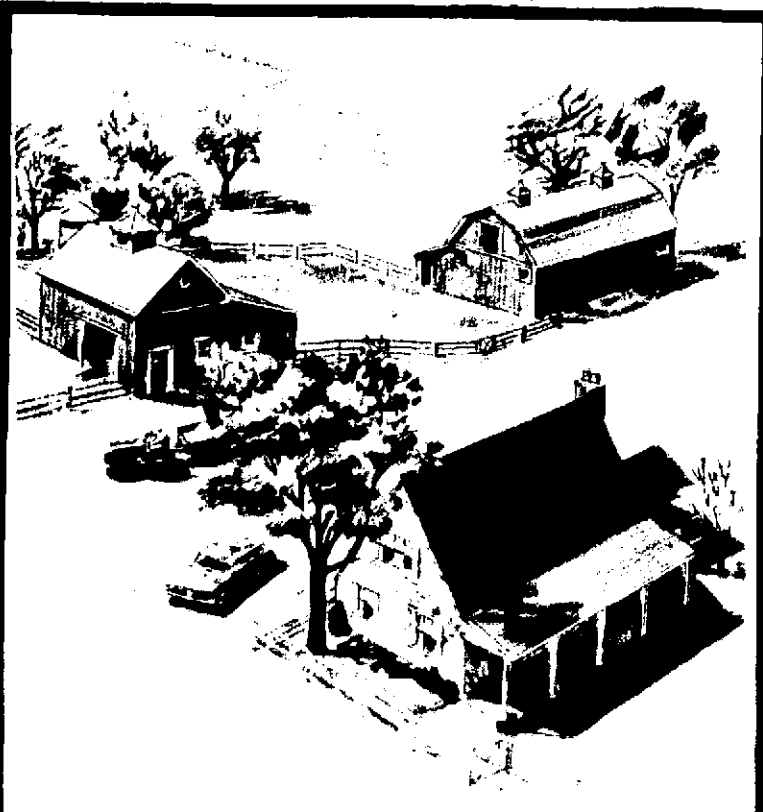

3:47 a.m.—Astronauts re-enter Intrepid and close hatch.

5:02 a.m.—Cockpit is depressurized again so backpacks and other unnecessary gear can be tossed onto surface of the moon to reduce weight inside Intrepid, then the cockpit is repressurized.

5:47 a.m.—Astronauts begin one-hour meal period, then check Intrepid's systems for launch back into moon orbit.

9:23 a.m.—Conrad and Bean trigger the landing craft's ascent engine for critical seven-minute, 10-second burn to propel them into lunar orbit.

1:02 p.m.—Intrepid and Yankee Clipper command ship dock.

Families of Astronauts See It All

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer
SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — With friends, relatives and champagne, the Apollo 12 families watched through the long night as Americans flew again to the surface of the moon.

"An all-night moon vigil," was the way Sue Bean, wife of the lunar module pilot, described it.

She, Jane Conrad and Barbara Gordon, their homes filled with houseguests, looked and listened via television as the moonship descended to the lunar surface.

To Charles Conrad Jr. and Alan L. Bean befell the honor and peril of man's second moon landing.

Separated from his colleagues, Richard F. Gordon Jr., piloted the command ship Yankee Clipper in moon orbit, alone and poised for a rescue attempt should one become necessary.

As the crew prepared for the descent, ground communicator Gerry Carr told the astronauts their wives were resting for the long night ahead.

"I just talked to Barbara and she's been resting up," Carr told Gordon. "They're taking naps and everything, getting all set for spending the night up with you."

"And Barbara said to tell you that she thinks you're just great."

"Well!" Gordon laughingly

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

MY READERS ANSWER THE MAIL:

Dear Helen: I must disagree with those who say "Let sleeping skeletons lie." Even though a missing parent may be an utter stinker, the child has a right to know who and where that parent is, and all questions be answered.

I found out I was an illegitimate child quite late in life. My real mother kept me, but she hides the identity of my father. Even if he were in jail, I wouldn't be ashamed of him. I'd want to help him. Not knowing has caused me much unhappiness, but my mother insists it's for the best. —WONDERING

Dear Helen: Finding a lost father (who has been foolishly hidden away from a child by an over-protective family) will satisfy her curiosity and remove a question mark from her mind. I know, because I found my "real" mother, after more than 25 years of searching.

I was adopted by a wonderful couple when I was nine months old, and given every advantage. My life has been wonderful—except for the missing part. My birth certificate stated my mother's name and my place of birth. All I learned from my adopted parents was that she was 17 and unmarried.

Over the years I placed ads in countless papers, contacted missing persons bureaus, and put requests in "personal columns." Finally I hit pay dirt. My mother called me, offering proof that clinched it.

She told me that after she placed me for adoption, she returned home and later married a successful farmer (not my father). She has three fine sons. Her husband and family don't know of my existence, so we keep our calls secret. We hope to meet at some future time. At long last I am satisfied and my mother is too, for she had many depressed days, wondering about me. I would never try to replied, "Tell her thank you. After 16 years, it's about time." "Mama's going to let us stay up," exclaimed an excited Larry Gordon, 11, one of the six Gordon children. "And we don't have to go to school Wednesday."

Peter Conrad, 14, and a companion were mapping plans to reenact the flight of Intrepid in a cardboard "lunar lander" this weekend.

Peter and his friend, Michael Howell, will climb into a box between beds in a room of the Howell home Friday night.

The simulated moonship contains sleeping pads, a toy instrument panel, a television set and other equipment designed to aid the junior spacemen on their simulated flight, scheduled to end Sunday.

The two Bean children, Clay, 13, and Amy, 6, were also swept up in the excitement of the moon adventure.

But their reactions differed. Clay complained that his schoolmates brought newspaper pictures of him to school, which "is embarrassing." Amy, on the other hand, took the clippings and raced off to show a girl friend.

The Bean household was stocked up with food and champagne, and Mrs. Bean emerged on the eve of the landing to tape up a poster showing the moon, the moon lander, the earth and a sign: "Go Navy! Go Apollo 12!"

All three crew members are Navy commanders.

establish a relationship more than what it is: My REAL parents are the wonderful people who raised me and no one could take their place in my heart, just as I couldn't mean the same to her as do her sons. But it's so nice to KNOW. All adopted children should, if at all possible.—S.O.

Dear Helen: When I read the letter from the prisoner who wanted to find his little daughter and get to know her someday, I thought of my early and disastrous marriage. We ran away, but never really lived together. Soon he was in jail (again), and the baby and I went home to live with my parents. I was divorced six years ago, and am now happily re-married to a wonderful man.

My first husband's name is never mentioned, but when my daughter is a little older I'll tell her all about him. I won't degrade him nor let anyone else, but she'll know the truth and, later on, she wants to find him, I'll help her.

Lately I've been worrying about this man I scarcely knew, wondering if he went totally wrong or rehabilitated himself. He was always very good at finding women and narcotics when out of jail, and he sent child support only once in seven years. I've lost track of him.

Is it best to leave it that way? Could you please tell me whether the prisoner who wrote you was a Texan? Perhaps he's my ex.—M.K.

Dear M: The prisoner who wrote to me came from California.

Since you are happily married and owe your ex nothing, don't hunt for trouble. He may be more than you bargained for! —H.

Fatty Changes in Liver Cause No Impairment

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—I am a housewife, 53. On a routine physical check-up the doctor found that I have a slightly enlarged liver. Blood chemistry and liver function tests were normal. A needle biopsy revealed minimal fatty change. I was told to eat a low-fat, high-protein diet but was given no medication. Is this serious?

A—Fatty changes in the liver usually cause no symptoms or impairment of liver function. The treatment you are getting should prevent any further progress of this essentially benign disease.

Q—How can one detect the early stages of cancer of the liver?

A—Scanning the liver with a Geiger counter after one has taken a radioactive isotope and microscopic examination of a small core of liver tissue (needle biopsy) are the best methods.

Q—What causes liver spots on the face and what can be done for them?

A—One type of liver spot (chloasma) appears only above the neck. It may be associated with ovarian disease, cirrhosis of the liver, tuberculosis, cancer, normal pregnancy, thyroid deficiency or malnutrition. Another type (tinea versicolor) may appear anywhere on the body. It is caused by a harmless fungus. The treat-

The history of any bridge player's exploits at the table will be full of squeezes for grand slams, end plays to make doubled contracts, brilliant leads, inferences in bidding and all sorts of sensational table action.

Part of Helen Sobel's charisma may be seen in today's hand, which was one of her favorites. It occurred in a match-point game back in 1935, when young Helen was just making her impact on the bridge scene.

Most everyone in the game managed to reach five clubs with the North-South cards. Everyone made five except Helen, who scored a little 20-point overtrick. See if you can figure out how she did it.

It really wasn't difficult for her. She just played the five of spades from dummy at trick one. East took his queen and looked around for new worlds to conquer. Needless to say, he fired back the jack of diamonds and Operation Overtrick was in full swing.

Helen won the diamond and cashed her queen of clubs. A second club to dummy's king accounted for all missing trumps. Now Helen cashed her other high diamond. Dummy's ace and king of spades allowed her to discard her seven of diamonds.

The subsequent plays were to ruff a low diamond in her hand, return to dummy with a trump and discard her losing heart on the last diamond.

This play wasn't guaranteed to succeed and only did succeed because diamonds broke 3-3. It also would have gained nothing if East had played a heart at trick two. Still, the way to win is to give the cards a chance, which is just what Helen did. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

More About Your Social Security

By KEN HARGIS

If you have any questions regarding social security, I invite your letters. Just send them to Social Security, Ken Hargis, Box 1319, Texarkana, Texas 75501. Your name will be printed in the Hope STAR unless you request that it be withheld.

Q. I just broke my leg and my doctor says I will be off work about 5 months. Can I receive social security disability payments?

A. Probably not. To receive disability insurance payments, you must have a physical or mental impairment which will prevent you from doing any substantial gainful work for at least 12 full months.

Q. My claim for disability insurance benefits was turned down, but I feel I am totally disabled. What can I do about it?

A. You may file a request to have your case reviewed. You can file your request with your local social security representative (or, at your nearest social security office.)

Q. I will be 65 soon but do not plan on retiring for 2 more years. Can I still sign up for Medicare?

A. Yes, even though you do not plan to retire you still may be covered for Medicare starting the month you are 65, providing you sign up from 1 to 3 months before the month you are 65. Be sure and bring evidence of your age with you when you come in to apply.

Q. What do I need to do to obtain a social security number for my infant son? I'm opening up a savings account for him in his name and the bank tells me to get a social security number for him.

A. We are mailing you form SS-5 which is an application for a social security number. You should complete the form on behalf of the child and sign your name followed by your relationship to the child, for example, "John Smith, father."

Q. I have never had a social security number. I will soon be 62 and hope to receive social security benefits on my retired husband's record. Do I need a social security number to get social security checks?

A. No, your social security

Arkadelphia Game Most Important

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports Writer

Sometimes a writer tries his hardest to be inspirational with his point. This is my attempt. Hope Coach Ronnie Higgins on Monday told his Bobcats that "this (Arkadelphia) is the most important game of your lives." How true for the seniors especially, who have had a tough road to hoe.

As sophomores the present seniors came out of two junior or high seasons with a total record of 3-4-1, which is nothing to boast about.

Some asserted themselves as starters for the 1967 Bobcats, and the rest made up the reserves of a team picked very high in the preseason ratings. The result was a horribly disappointing 2-8-1 showing that fall, after which Head Coach Freddie Glaze resigned and was replaced by then head assistant Ronnie Higgins.

Once again in 1968 Hope was rated high before the season as today's seniors were juniors. However, as in the few years before there was no team play or leadership with the squad split into a couple of factions led by a few individuals.

Last year's team was licked 7-0 by Ashdown in the opener and kept slipping to a final 4-7-1 record after a closing lackadaisical 6-0 loss to Arkadelphia.

That's a total of 9-20-3 for this group of 1969 seniors before the present season. We speak of this past blunty but unashamedly, for all those mistakes have been atoned for since this August 14.

And while everybody put Hope down lower in the preseason pickings for 1969, this writer stuck his nose out and chose the Bobcats to win the 4-AA West championship over Arkadelphia and Fairview.

That prediction still stands in this final week of the regular season, and Hope plays Arkadelphia on Friday night for ALL the marbles.

As last fall, the Bobcats started this season with a disheartening (14-6) loss to a game Ashdown team that could win the state Class A championship yet in their playoffs.

Many Hope people the morning after the Ashdown loss expected still another long boring losing season for their football team, but the Bobcats didn't give up as has happened here in past years. They came back.

They came back by whipping Prescott 27-0, DeQueen 28-0, Smackover 43-2, Malvern 20-6, and North Little Oak Grove 47-7. Then came the nightmare 29-0 loss at Fairview, and the sudden realization that football wasn't a bed of roses.

And again, when they could have quit, the Hope Bobcats came back. They smothered Magnolia 21-0 on the Bobcat teams' 50th anniversary, and then came Camden.

Halftime arrived and Camden led 7-0 on their Homecoming, and the Hope seniors had NEVER come from behind to victory. This was the final fork in the road, and the Bobcats took the high side by beating Camden 19-7.

Now it was Camden Lincoln, and Hope messed around with a shoddy 13-6 lead at intermission. The Bobcats got it in the dressing room during that break, though, and since that point have outscored their opposition 113-0 in the last six quarters.

Lincoln finally fell 84-6, then the Cats celebrated Homecoming last Friday by crushing Nashville 42-0. A 9-2 record so satisfying, but the title rides on Friday night against 10-0 Arkadelphia on the Badgers' Homecoming at Henderson Stadium.

Those 14 Bobcat seniors have now proven they could win, with the help of those former Yerger players who reached the 7-A

Many Hope Buckeyes Will Lose

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A lot of college football teams are hoping Ohio State finally loses this weekend.

Michigan, for instance, last team between the top-ranked Buckeyes and their second consecutive perfect season. A victory would put the Wolverines in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day and even a respectable defeat might do it.

Then there's second-ranked Texas and third-ranked Arkansas. Should Ohio State lose, their Dec. 6 battle would be for the national championship.

But Ohio State has some support. Purdue, a 42-14 victim of the Buckeyes last week, still has a shot at the Rose Bowl, but Michigan must lose. Who will it be? Stay tuned.

Ohio State at Michigan—"I'm impressed, but not awed by them," said Larry Smith, a Michigan assistant coach who scouted the Buckeyes against Purdue. I'm awed, Ohio State.

UCLA at Southern California—"This just might be Tommy Prothro's best UCLA team ever," UCLA.

Missouri at Kansas—"More salt in Pepper's wounds," Missouri.

Air Force at Notre Dame—"Irish are heading for the Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day, but this time them ol' cotton fields are in South Bend, Ind. Notre Dame.

Nebraska at Oklahoma—"Nebraska has its bowl bid but the Sooners are still trying, Oklahoma.

Purdue at Indiana—"Boiler-makers bounce back, Purdue.

Kansas State at Colorado—"Winner goes to the Liberty Bowl. The winnah . . . Colorado.

North Texas State at San Diego State—"Pro scouts will be out in droves to see the passing show put on by Steve Ramsey and Dennis Shaw. San Diego State.

Dartmouth at Princeton—"Big Green tries for the Ivy League crown, Princeton tries for a tie. Too much time before Christmas for ties, Dartmouth.

Hawaii at Yale—"The Game! Last year it was Harvard rallied for 16 points in the final 42 seconds and a 29-29 tie. Bulldogs hang on this time, Yale.

And do you know which is college football's most played series? Not the oldest, but the most played, it's Lafayette vs. Lehigh for the 105th time, and the 62nd triumph for . . . Lafayette.

championship door last year but were locked out 7-0 by Ashdown. Everybody, then has come this close to taking it all.

Seniors David Still, Mike McQueen, Jim Aiford, Glen Rock, Ronny Brown, Larry McWilliams, Randy Still, and Terry Vines knew all those lean years. Artis Martin, Thomas Lloyd, Lee Davis, Jessie Henry, Isiah Hendrix, and Hiram Reynolds experienced some hard times at Yerger too, before the Tigers had a winner last year.

Mixed together, their spirit, determination, desire, closeness, and leadership have signified better than anything else the fact that all men are brothers and CAN live in peace and harmony and strive for a common goal. Be it New York, St. Louis, or Hope, Arkansas.

And that, my friends, is what this life is all about. That leaves it up to the teams, involved, Hope and Arkadelphia.

Arkansas State Going to Bowl

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Six more College Division football teams were named by the NCAA Tuesday to berths in post-season bowl games.

Arkansas State, 6-1-1, will clash with Drake University, 6-1-2, in the Pecan Bowl at Arlington, Tex., Dec. 13.

East Tennessee State, 8-0-1, will meet Louisiana Tech, 7-1, in the Grantland Rice Bowl at Baton Rouge, La., the same day.

North Dakota State, will be pitted against Montana in the Camellia Bowl at Sacramento.

The University of Bridgeport, Conn., 8-1, was named host team for the Knute Rockne Bowl to be played in Bridgeport Nov. 29. An NCAA spokesman said Bridgeport's opponent will be either Randolph-Macon, 7-1, or Wiles, Pa., College, 6-2.

Drake which ends its regular season against Idaho State Saturday does not compete for the Missouri Valley Conference football crown and is placed in the College Division I.

Arkansas State has clinched a tie for the Southland Conference title with a game against Trinity (Tex.) University remaining.

Louisiana Tech is assured of at least a share of the Gulf States Conference championship with Northeast Louisiana left to play.

Eastern Tennessee State, the Ohio Valley Conference champ, takes on Austin Peay Saturday.

On Monday Delaware and North Carolina Center were named opponents in the Boardwalk Bowl at Atlantic City, N. J., Dec. 13.

Cliff Powell Is Player of the Week

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

While collegiate football is a most violent sport, Arkansas' tough linebacker Cliff Powell figures you've got to be sharp between the ears if you want to win.

Powell says Southern Methodist and its strong-armed quarterback Chuck Hixson presented a situation last Saturday where "you couldn't afford to have a mental lapse."

"We had to keep on our toes because anytime we'd leave a weak spot, he (Hixson) would hit it," Powell said. "We knew we couldn't ever let down. You let down against them and you're in trouble."

Powell was credited with 12 unassisted tackles and 11 assisted tackles in a 28-15 victory over SMU. His heroics earned him The Associated Press Southwest Conference Defensive Player of the Week award.

Mike Spruill, a sophomore tailback for Rice, was picked as the Offensive Player of the Week in scoring the Owls only touchdown in a 7-6 victory over Texas A&M.

Arkansas' linebacker coach Harold Horton said the 6-foot-1, 220-pound Powell played "an inspired game. It was one of his best games this year. He went after the ball real well and huddled piles of players at times to get to it."

Head coach Frank Broyles said "Powell deserves to be on somebody's All-America team."

Spruill, in his first varsity role, rushed for 124 yards in 31 carries against the Aggies.

Spruill had been playing fullback but likes the tailback slot the most.

"I'm sure a lot better ball carrier than I am a blocker so I have to say I like tailback best," he said. "We really needed this one. We'd gone in ahead at halftime against Texas Tech and then we were behind only 10-6 to Arkansas at the half."

"That was something to take in at halftime against the nation's fourth ranked team, but we just couldn't get anything going in the second half."

Spruill also helped the Owls control the ball for the last 5:46 to protect their lead. He carried 10 of 13 plays to end the game.

"We had a time out right before that last drive," he said. "That's the most fire I've seen on offense this season and it helped."

"The team was so high after the game I think it'll take longer than a week for us to come down from this one."

Other offensive players receiving votes were SMU quarterback Hixson and Arkansas tailback Bill Burnett. Other defensive stars were Rodrigo Barnes of Rice; Gordon McNulty, Bruce James and Mike Boschetti, all of Arkansas; and David Arledge of Texas.

Mississippi Freshman Wins Honors

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

As a freshman football player at the University of Mississippi, Fred Brister alternated with Archie Manning at quarterback. He isn't a quarterback any more, but Brister alternated with Manning again Saturday—in destroying Tennessee's hopes for a perfect season.

With Brister leading the defensive charge that shut out the then third-ranked Volunteers and Manning putting points on the scoreboard, Ole Miss crushed Tennessee 38-0 and promptly earned an invitation to the Sugar Bowl.

Brister, a 6-foot-2, 208-pound junior linebacker from McComb, Miss., made nine tackles — six unassisted — recovered a fumble to start a touchdown march and made a key tackle on Tennessee's Bobby Scott when the Vols had a first down on the Rebel eight.

For that performance, he was named Lineman of the Week by The Associated Press.

During the spring following his freshman season, Brister was moved to linebacker. He got a starting shot in last year's Louisiana State game when Joe Blount, the regular, came down with the flu. Blount never did get his job back.

But misfortune struck Brister in the Liberty Bowl when he injured a knee and had to undergo an operation that caused him to miss last spring's drills.

Brister played the first three games of this season with his knee heavily taped and perhaps it's more than a coincidence that the Rebels lost two of them.

Then things started to pick up, reaching a climax Nov. 1 when Brister decided to play against LSU without the bandages. The difference in mobility was something to see as Ole Miss knocked LSU from the unbeaten ranks. After last weekend, Tennessee needed the bandages.

Proclamation

"BEAT THE BADGER" PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, on next Friday night, November 21, 1969, the Hope Bobcats will invade the den of the highly touted Badgers of Arkadelphia High School; and

WHEREAS, this game will be the outstanding high school game played in the State of Arkansas; and

WHEREAS, the Badgers through various media have indicated that they are giving priority attention to this game; and

WHEREAS, the devotion, concentration and hard work of our Bobcat team deserves to be matched by the one hundred per cent support of the community.

IT IS, THEREFORE, by the undersigned hereby proclaimed that Friday, November 21, 1969 be and hereby is set aside as "Beat the Badger" Friday throughout all of Hempstead County and we call upon every loyal Bobcat follower to make known visibly his devotion to our wonderful Bobcat team by being present in the den of the Badger and rooting the Bobcats on to a significant victory.

WITNESS our hands and seals on this the 18th day of November, 1969.

FRANK DOUGLAS
Mayor of the City of Hope

Beat Badgers Week Is Designated

This week has been designated "Beat the Badgers" week by the Bobcats and the community. Anderson Frazier Insurance is preparing five thousand lapel signs that say "Beat the Badgers."

They will be distributed through the schools and will be available to local citizens at the Anderson Frazier office. Dick Moore, the Booster Club President, says a caravan will form at Hope High at 6 p.m. to leave for Arkadelphia.

Fans are urged to join the caravan and go to Arkadelphia and help the Bobcats "Beat the Badgers."

Pacers Won But It Took Some Doing

The clock showed two seconds left. The score was tied 105-105 and the Indiana Pacers were flirting with a loss to the Denver Rockets, one of the losingest teams in the American Basketball Association. Enter Roger Brown.

Brown hit a field goal from the corner to make it 107-105. Then the Pacers, the defending ABA champions, scored the insurance points after the Rockets were tagged for a technical foul for taking a time out when they had none left, and won it 108-105 Tuesday night.

In the only other ABA game, Pittsburgh snapped a five-game losing streak with a 113-107 victory over Miami.

In the NBA, Boston nipped Phoenix 120-119 in overtime; Baltimore edged San Diego 142-138, also in overtime, the New York Knicks crushed Cincinnati 112-94, Chicago buried Philadelphia 127-111; Los Angeles overpowered Detroit 125-114, and San Francisco beat Milwaukee 127-110.

Brown had a productive final period. He scored five field goals and seven free throws to tie the rookie Spencer Haywood of Denver for scoring honors with 32 points.

The victory pushed Indiana, now 14-2, 2½ games in front of Kentucky in the Eastern Division and dropped Denver, 5-13, deeper into the cellar in the West.

Pittsburgh took a 72-70 lead over Miami late in the third period after trailing most of the game. Miami was led by Willie Murrell, who topped all scorers with 26 points. Charlie Williams pumped in 25 for Pittsburgh.

Nicklaus lives a more normal life than almost any regular on the professional tour. He flies home between events and even slips back into Palm Beach County between rounds when the tournament is within a few hundred miles.

Since shedding his weight, Nicklaus has won two tournaments and finished as a runner-up in the other. If he happens to win the Heritage, Nicklaus will probably play the circuit-ending Danny Thomas Classic at Hollywood, Fla., Dec. 4-7 in an attempt to overhaul Frank Beard for the money lead.

Nicklaus currently stands third among tour cashmakers with about $135,000. Beard is on top with over $175,000.

Nicklaus Is Proud of Losing Weight

By HUBERT MIZELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI (AP) — Jack Nicklaus grabbed himself squarely by the seat of his pants.

"See, it's all gone," said the golfing great. "No more fat . . ."

Nicklaus had clutched an excess of cloth once packed with an ample posterior. A 21-day diet did more for Jack's rear view than anything else.

"I never really liked being called Fat Jack," he admitted. "I never got mad or anything, but it's not a nice thing to have written about you all the time."

The Nicklaus waistline went down by only one inch—to a trim 34—as he shed almost 20 pounds recently, but his caboose tailed off from 47 to 42 inches.

Old pals approach Nicklaus and can't believe their eyes. His frame hasn't carried its present 190 pounds for 10 years, since Jack won the '59 U.S. Amateur at the age of 19.

His pretty wife, Barbara, didn't have any poundage to spare, but she made sacrifices and ate the same low-fat meals as Jack during the cutdown period.

Entertainer Jackie Gleason, a fellow resident of South Florida, dropped 61 pounds last summer and claimed the only problem was learning a new golf swing.

Gleason said not having to swing around his tummy was a new experience that sent scores on the links up for awhile.

"I never had much of a middle," Nicklaus said. "My weight was back in my hips and upper legs."

Despite the weight drop, Nicklaus thinks his powerful drives are as long as ever — maybe longer.

"I was beginning to feel tired by midsummer," he said. "My feet hurt more and more. I felt I needed more sleep than I used to. It felt, all of a sudden, like I was getting old."

Jack isn't exactly ancient—he'll turn 30 in January—but his muscular legs have a lot of miles logged and "I needed to make the load a little lighter."

Although he plans only one more tournament for certain, the new $100,000 Heritage Classic at Hilton Head, S.C., Nicklaus will stick to a hot schedule during the next month playing the Argentine Masters in Buenos Aires and then an exhibition match in Santiago, Chile," he said.

Like his fellow golf superstar, Arnold Palmer, Nicklaus leases his own Lear jet. His contract calls for 250 flying hours a year, which adds up to about 125,000 miles. That doesn't count time spent aboard commercial airplanes.

"If I didn't have my airplane, I couldn't live in Florida," said Jack, who moved from his native Columbus, Ohio, to Lost Tree Village about a year ago. "I'd need to be more centrally located. I insist on spending a good deal of time with Barbara and the kids."

Defense of Ohio State One of Best

By GEORGE STRODE
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "I like defense better than offense because I don't like to get hit."

Jack Tatum, who was named with Ohio State defensive secondary mates Tim Anderson, Mike Sensibaugh and Ted Provost as The Associated Press college back of the week, was explaining the big switch.

The four Ohio State defensive stars all had been offensive standouts in high school, Tatum gaining 1,421 yards as a senior All-New Jersey fullback.

Now they form what their Ohio State assistant coach Dick Walker terms "one of the best secondaries in the country."

"They have more than just speed," Walker evaluated. "They have great tackling ability and mental toughness."

The foursome proved its toughness to Purdue and Mike Phipps Saturday, helping shackle the Boilermakers with a 42-14 Big Ten loss.

Cornerback Tatum is six-foot, 204 pounds, safety Sensibaugh six-foot, 190 pounds and halfbacks Provost and Anderson 6-3, 184 pounds and six-foot, 194 pounds.

Porkers Are Working Out

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Taking what head coach Frank Broyles called, "the three-fourths break," the Arkansas Razorbacks viewed films and worked out briefly in subfreezing weather Tuesday afternoon.

The Razorbacks, 8-0, don't play again until Thanksgiving Day when they face Texas Tech in a nationally televised game at Little Rock.

The passers and receivers loosened up outside. Their activity was brief.

Broyles said he did not know what the Razorbacks would do today. He said, however, the workout would not be in pads.

Television and Radio
NEW YORK (AP) - "The Wolf Men," the first in NBC's new series of nature specials, was a powerful and positive demonstration of television's powers as image builder and image changer.
After centuries as a symbol of evil and deceit-the wolf in sheep's clothing; who's afraid of the big, bad wolf; keeping the wolf from the door-the fast disappearing species was presented during the hour Tuesday as an intelligent social animal, full of affection, and a predator that kills only what it needs to eat.
The program showed the wolf in the wilds, emphasizing that the animals have been slaughtered almost to extinction in the 48 states and that there is still a $50 bounty on the 5,000 remaining in Alaska. Later, some vivid film showed hunters gunning down the creatures from the safety of an airplane. That sequence, too, created some images about humans.
Along the way, scientists and others demolished stories of fierce wolves attacking man. They run from man and if attacked, they were rabid, said the wolf experts.
Most interesting was the portion showing wolves that have been brought up by humans. While hardly domesticated, they treated their human friends like overly affectionate, playful big dogs. But they make poor pets; are playfully destructive and cannot be house broken.
It was an especially fine program on an unusual subject.
"Run a Crooked Mile," the "World Premiere" first-run movie on NBC was a first rate suspense story. Louis Jourdan played a schoolteacher who stumbled into an international cabal to control the world gold market and witnessed a homicide.
The story spun along at a pace far faster than the usual "World Premiere" and was further fortified by the urbane performance of Jourdan, a pleasant romantic subplot, handsome exteriors shot in London where the two-hour show was made and the appearance of Mary Tyler Moore was the hero's wife.

Either All of Police Docket or None of It

This is fair comment on a matter of public fair play. Every week The Star publishes the proceedings of Hope Municipal Court. It's a public duty that we perform despite the unpleasant fact it's no way to win friends. The public does presume, however, we are acting in good faith—that if we publish the court docket at all we publish ALL of it—and that has been our guarantee all the 40 years of our ownership.

I regret to report we have discovered an omission. Yesterday afternoon, alerted by rumors reaching both General Manager Paul H. Jones and your editor, the newspaper had Mr. Jones make a search of Municipal Court records. He uncovered a duly-listed case which never was reported in The Star. Here is the report on the missing case:

"Oct. 28, 1969—Lenoulla Crafton, Negro woman, arrested at a local grocery store by city police on a charge of shoplifting. She posted bond of $25 plus costs of $6.50, a total of $31.50. She failed to appear in court Nov. 4, and bond and costs were forfeited. Recorded in City Docket Book No. 51, Page 177, listed as Case No. 1332."

The Municipal Court report has been handled as an official transcript for many years. It is prepared by Miss Annie Jean Walker, official court clerk, is forwarded to The Star, and published verbatim—meaning you don't have a Chinaman's chance of getting a name deliberately struck off the list.

But errors of omission do occur. I can recall only two instances in all my years here when an entry was left out of the transcript—both finally being detected and published, as with the case cited today.

Miss Walker reported today's case was due entirely to her personal error in copying—no pressure was brought to bear on her to make the omission—and we accept her statement completely. The 40-year record of transcripts speaks for itself.

How do you run down stories like this? People tip you to complaints—but refuse to mention names.

Mr. Jones had to spend a good part of a day searching the official file before coming up with evidence.

Why couldn't the rumor-loving public have produced one person with the courage to give us a specific name so we could check up at once—instead of letting three weeks elapse?

No one is going to pressure this newspaper against publishing news, and if any attempt ever is made to pressure official news sources then we want the names of the pressuring parties—they'll get the same treatment that omitted cases get.

20th Annual Lion Auction for Needy

The Hope Lions Club will hold its 20th annual Christmas auction December 2nd, 3rd and 4th in the lobby of the First National Bank of Hope. The auction started in the studios of KXAR in 1950 and was conducted there for a few years until it was moved to the City Hall Courtroom.

It really began to grow, however, when it was moved up town and a community social function as well as a fund raising event that has provided Christmas Baskets for about 150 families per year for the last several years.

KXAR has a University of Arkansas Basketball game Monday and Friday and will be on the air until 10 p.m. for five consecutive nights. The facilities of the First National Bank were offered by Thomas Ed Hays, Jr. The club voted Monday, November 17th, to accept the offer with gratitude.

The auction will employ the Bank's regular phone system with the number of 777-2363 becoming the auction number from 6:30 to 10 p.m. each of the three nights. Visitors will be welcome as usual with coffee and donuts being provided by the Lions Club to those who come by to visit, bid and buy. Those dates again, December 2nd, 3rd, and 4th for the 20th Annual Lions Christmas Auction.

1,500 Tons of Bombs Hit Enemy

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Fifty B52 Stratofortresses dropped some 1,500 tons of bombs during the night on North Vietnamese forces threatening the Bu Prang and Duc Lap Special Forces camps along the Cambodian border.

The heaviest concentration was laid around Bu Prang, where 40 of the bombers pounded enemy positions on three sides of the camp. Some of the bombs hit only two miles from the camp perimeter.

The B52s followed three days of fighter-bomber strikes against North Vietnamese guns shelling Bu Prang from inside Cambodia and against enemy infantry battling with South Vietnamese soldiers around the camps. The U.S. Command said 243 North Vietnamese soldiers were killed near Bu Prang Monday, most of them by bombs, rockets and napalm from American planes.

Despite the heavy air attacks, North Vietnamese troops continued their shelling of Bu Prang. However, there were no reports of new ground fighting.

Several rounds of recoilless rifle shells and rocket grenades fell inside the camp compound during the night. South Vietnamese infantrymen a mile southeast of the camp also came under fire.

There were no immediate reports on casualties.

Twenty miles farther south, North Vietnamese artillerymen shelled the Special Forces camp at Nhon Co, but again there was no word on casualties.

The U.S. Command also announced that the last of 43 Army Reserve and National Guard units called to active duty in May 1968 will leave Vietnam Thursday.

Headquarters said Company D, 151st Infantry (Ranger), of the Indiana National Guard, will fly to Standiford Field in Louisville, Ky. The unit, now down to about 70 National Guardsmen from a high of 200, will be processed at Ft. Knox, Ky., and returned to the control of Indiana's adjutant general.

In two other moves connected with President Nixon's troop cutback, headquarters announced that Marine Aircraft Group 36 will be sent to Okinawa Thursday and another Ranger unit, Company D, 75th Infantry, will be inactivated in Vietnam.

Phone Service Is Disrupted

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — A spokesman for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. says about 200 customers in Pine Bluff were without telephone service Tuesday night.

The spokesman said because of heavy rain in the Pine Bluff area water got into some lines, knocking them out.

Finds a Trip Through South Broadening in More Ways Than One

By JOY STILLEY
NEW YORK (AP) — They say travel is broadening, and I'll add my weight to that statement.

What I'd really like to do, though, is subtract all the weight I gained on a recent automobile trip to the South.

We went through 10 states and 28 flavors of ice cream. The car got good mileage but I can't say the same for its occupants. While we could go nearly 200 miles on a three-course breakfast, we only got about 75 miles to the cup of coffee.

But the many stops for snacks were just practice to get us in shape for the real eating that got us out of shape.

It isn't only the army that travels on its stomach. When my husband said, "Fill 'er up," he wasn't talking to the service station attendant about the car he was talking to the waitress about me.

Although the interstate highways are a boon to those in a hurry, to me their greatest drawback is the fact that there are no eating establishments on

Probers Told Banks in Appointment of Haynsworth Dealt Blow

By LAWRENCE L. KNUSTON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A billion-dollar currency manipulation racket with Indian money changers at the top and GI deserters at the bottom has corrupted some South Vietnamese officials, congressional investigators have been told.

The investigations committee, headed by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., also heard testimony Tuesday that millions of

U.S., Russia Envoys Plan Joint Party

By LEWIS GULICK
Associated Press Writer
HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — The U.S. and the Soviet ambassadors are giving a precedent-shattering joint party today during the one-day recess in the strategic arms limitation talks.

The reception being given by Ambassadors Val Peterson and A. E. Kovalev is the first in Helsinki—and diplomats believe the first anywhere—to be given jointly by Soviet and American ambassadors.

The idea—understood to have been proposed by Peterson and willingly seconded by his Soviet counterpart—was to stage a get-acquainted social for the disarmament delegations, their staffs and leaders of the Finnish government hosting the conference.

About 200 guests were invited to the reception at a restaurant-nightclub neutrally located between the U.S. and Soviet embassies.

The two ambassadors drew up the invitation list—and agreed to split the cost 50-50.

The joint reception underscored the air of cordiality which has surrounded the negotiations since they first met Monday.

Conference sources said there have been no procedural disputes so far like the long argument in Paris last year over the shape of the table for the Vietnam peace talks.

A toss of the coin, for example, gave Soviet negotiator Vladimir S. Semenov first place in the speaking lineup at the ceremonial opening. The Russians readily agreed in turn to hold the first business session Tuesday at the U.S. Embassy, and the Americans agreed to hold the next session Thursday at the Soviet Embassy.

Whether this show of cooperation means the two superpowers will make any progress in the main aim of the talks—to slow down the nuclear arms race—remains to be seen.

The shortness of the first negotiating session—only 45 minutes of business time since half the 90-minute meeting was spent in translations—indicated neither side presented its position in detail.

Overnight lows around the state included 32 at Memphis, El Dorado, Texarkana and Blytheville; 24 at Fayetteville; 28 at Jonesboro, 33 at Pine Bluff and 34 at Little Rock.

Not even a frozen custard stand. We're not concerned with getting there faster—we just want to get there fatter—so we stick mainly to the more interesting roads that provide something to see as well as something to eat.

There were times, of course, when we were forced to make up in quantity what the miles lacked in quality. But we've discovered that the number of local cars parked outside an eating house is indicative of the kind of meals being dispensed inside.

Still, it's risky business and we drove miles out of our way to munch lunch at a place we remembered with fondness from a previous trip. Surprisingly, they were still putting out fine fare.

Once we got below the Mason-Dixon line, we heeded the admonition: "When in the South, do as the Southerners do." And what the Southerners dollars from the illegal operation end up in U.S. banks.

Robert Parker, an official at the U.S. embassy in Saigon, said the Indians "constitute a syndicate in the most criminal and sinister sense of the word."

"The presence of this well known group of Indian currency violators, operating openly, weakens the morale of more dedicated Vietnamese law enforcement officials, makes corruption seem easy and encourages others to share in the black market profits themselves," Parker said.

He said many GIs have dealt with the money dealers who give up to 240 South Vietnamese piasters for a dollar instead of the legal rate of 118-to-1.

American deserters often sell their citizenship and contacts in the U.S. military to the syndicate, Parker indicated.

But Parker characterized the GIs as "a small player in a game with million-dollar stakes."

Parker said the racket has generated more than $150 million annually in illegal funds.

Committee investigators have traced illegal funds to 13 accounts in banks in Hong Kong and the United States.

"The extent of these transactions are such that it is my personal opinion that these banks knew what was going on," Sen. Ribicoff said.

He said while the U.S. banks do not appear to have violated present law, the subcommittee will recommend legislative and administrative action at the end of the hearings.

Among witnesses to be called today were Sgt. Albert Chang, an Army photographer who left the service in Vietnam, joined the Associated Press in Saigon and later re-enlisted in the Army.

Skies Clear Over Most of State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Cold, northerly winds and clear skies have replaced the rain and snow that fell in Arkansas for the past two days.

Scattered light snow fell in the Northeast part of the state Tuesday night. Blytheville reported one inch of snow on the ground at midnight.

Rainfall occurred in all sections of the state in association with the passage of a cold front through Arkansas Tuesday. Generally fair and continued cold weather is forecast through Thursday.

Temperatures around the state dropped sharply as cold air moved in behind the front. Early morning temperatures today were in the mid 20s north to mid 30s south.

Precipitation reported in the state for the 24-hour period ended at 6 a.m. today included .05 of an inch at Harrison, 1.10 at Jonesboro, 1.46 at Pine Bluff, .20 at Texarkana, 1.30 at El Dorado, 1.91 at Memphis, .83 at Little Rock and .59 at Blytheville with an inch of snow as cover.

Overnight lows around the state included 32 at Memphis, El Dorado, Texarkana and Blytheville; 24 at Fayetteville; 28 at Jonesboro, 33 at Pine Bluff and 34 at Little Rock.

Breakfast to Encourage Ted Boswell

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A breakfast to encourage Ted Boswell to run for governor next year will be held Friday at Hotel Marion by Boswell supporters.

Letters signed by Kent Ritchey, a Little Rock banker and president of the Little Rock Jaycees, and John Ostner, a Little Rock insurance agent, have been mailed inviting attendance at the breakfast.

Boswell, a lawyer, a candidate for the 1968 Democratic gubernatorial primary, has mentioned that he is considering Valley Industries Inc. as next year.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., dealt a blow today to administration hopes for confirmation of the Supreme Court nomination of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr., by lining up with the opposition.

With a Senate vote due Friday, Haynsworth supporters had been buoyed by earlier developments.

Williams told the Senate that "one can discern a pattern which indicates that Judge Haynsworth is insensitive to the expected requirements of judicial ethics, especially the rule that requires judges to separate from active business connections and to avoid even the appearance of impropriety."

Supporters of Haynsworth's nomination had been hoping that Williams would vote for confirmation, and some had said privately that if he decided against them, it would be a severe—and possibly fatal—blow.

Announcements Tuesday by two freshmen senators brightened the outlook for the Haynsworth backers.

The Senate's newest member, Republican Ralph T. Smith of Illinois, said he had changed his mind and will support Haynsworth. Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, said he too will vote for confirmation.

This came on the heels of word Monday from Sens. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., and William B. Spong, D-Va., that they would vote for Haynsworth.

Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said "the way things are going" he expects more announcements backing Haynsworth before Friday's 1 p.m. vote.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield obtained agreement on the timing of the vote after Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., a leader of the opposition, withdrew a proposal for a showdown Thursday.

Morris Found Guilty at Forrest City

FORREST CITY, Ark. (AP) — A St. Francis County Circuit Court jury found Eddie Lee Morris, 22, guilty Tuesday of robbery and assault with intent to kill.

Morris had been going by the last name of Tate, a member of a Memphis black militant group known as the Invaders.

However, in testimony at the trial Tuesday, the defendant's mother took the stand to produce a copy of a birth certificate that listed his name as Morris. She said she didn't know how he had been tagged with the name Tate, but figured it was like Lance Watson becoming known as Sweet Willie Wine.

Circuit Court Judge Elmo Taylor of Searcy sentenced Morris to not less than seven years and not more than 21 years in the state prison. Morris was charged in connection with an alleged attack on William Eppes, an elderly Forrest City grocery employee.

Four other persons, including Morris' wife, Peggy, 20, are to go on trial this week in connection with the alleged attack on Eppes.

Killed in Auto Accident

THORNTON, Ark. (AP) — Thomas W. Pate, 53, of Beard-en and Mrs. Sadie Dunn Hammonds, 43, of Tinsman (Calhoun County) were killed Tuesday afternoon in a two-car collision on rain-slick U.S. 79 in Thornton.

State Police said Pate's car went out of control on the wet highway and spun across the centerline, colliding with an auto driven by Thelma O. Stacy, 54, of Fordyce, who was injured critically. Mrs. Hammonds was a passenger in her car.

Flag Raised, Everything Going Well

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer
SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Two American astronauts made a bull's-eye landing on the moon today, raising their nation's flag and exploring its black, powdery surface for about four hours.

Before returning safely to their lunar ferry Intrepid, they deployed a set of five scientific instruments powered by the first nuclear generator on the moon. It was man's second quest for knowledge on that alien soil.

The moonwalk was spoiled for earthlings when a camera relaying the first color television pictures from the surface failed after 45 minutes.

Charles "Pete" Conrad Jr. and Alan L. Bean, the third and fourth humans to trod the moon, were in good humor and wise-cracked often as they conducted a detailed exploration of the moon's surface. Conrad's cackling laugh became a familiar sound.

They steered their lunar ferry Intrepid to a perfect landing just 20 feet from the edge of their target crater at 15429 a.m. Just 600 feet away rests an unmanned Surveyor spacecraft that soft-landed on the slope of the crater 2½ years ago.

They hope to walk to the Surveyor and retrieve parts of it during a second outside excursion scheduled to start at 12:32 a.m. Thursday. They also hope to have the television camera repaired in time for the second walk. Experts on the ground were working on a solution.

The nuclear generator worked perfectly, and the instruments began sending data to earth as soon as the unit was turned on. After collecting a few rock samples, raising the flag and deploying the nuclear-powered instruments, Conrad and Bean climbed back into Intrepid's cabin to rest for the second excursion Thursday.

Before returning to the cabin they brushed off layers of the dark powder that clung to them.

The moonwalkers originally were to have stayed outside about 3½ hours. With their oxygen supply holding well, Mission Control told them to remain at an extra half an hour and instructed them to collect samples from the rim of a nearby crater.

Conrad and Bean reported the dust in the Ocean of Storms was thicker and blacker than that in the Sea of Tranquility where the first moon explorers landed in July.

"Your boots dig into the soil quite a bit," Bean said, "if you don't pick up your feet you really kick a load of dirt in front of you."

They roamed several hundred feet from Intrepid to explore and to set up a set of five sophisticated scientific instruments to measure such things as the solar wind, moonquakes and the moon's atmosphere and ionosphere.

To power the instruments they implanted the first nuclear generator on the surface, a unit which required delicate handling because of its hot radioactive element.

The camera did record the first steps of both on the powdery surface. Commander Conrad's first words as he placed his 13-inch boot in the soil were: "That may have been a small one for Neil, but that's a long one for me."

He referred jokingly to Neil Armstrong's first words last July when he became the first man to step on the moon: "That's one small step for a man, one giant leap for mankind."

While ground experts studied the problem, the astronauts abandoned the camera to continue their exploration.

They were overjoyed at the landing spot, as they wandered at a variety of geological formations surrounding them.

GUIDE

Bring this handy Christmas Gift Guide along when you begin choosing presents for your family and friends.

It will help make your trip to Hope stores a real Christmas adventure.

As you can see, we have a wondrous collection of gifts ... something for everyone on your list.

At Home or En Route, the Holiday Mood Is 'Casual'

At home for the holidays or going south to the sun, the fashion mood this season is casual.

Sportswear has spread its unconstrained message across the fashion industry and has changed the whole spirit of the way women look.

Soft, clingy fabrics and the popularity of those oh-so-comfortable pants outfits make putting on something that's easy to wear irresistible. Even the Beautiful People don't want to "dress up" anymore unless they can be draped in something comfortable, like flowing evening pants or soft knits.

As clothing goes, so go the shoe styles. Casual is the word here, too. In the new Florsheim collection of women's shoes, natural, textured, and antiqued leathers, and the all-year favorite, patent leather, set the pace.

With smart pants-suits and go-South clothes, fashion experts recommend a medium-low-heel shoe in textured or antiqued leather for walking, shopping and touring. For evening and dressy outfits a higher, broader heel's a "must." Patent leather adds an elegant touch. Toes are naturally rounded. Extremes are out — no pointed or square toes, please.

Spectator shoes, contrasting navy, black or red with white, are fresher looking than ever in the new collection. Evoking memories of the 'Thirties, they're destined for popularity this spring. But the early shopper will catch them now in sharp, clean colors to spruce up winter wools.

MERRY CHRISTMAS!

Quite often it is the "senior citizen" who is most difficult to buy for — but it needn't be so. Gifts that "look ahead" are always appreciated . . . gifts such as a subscription to a magazine or book club, a roll of stamps in a pretty container.

how to apply hand-preparations

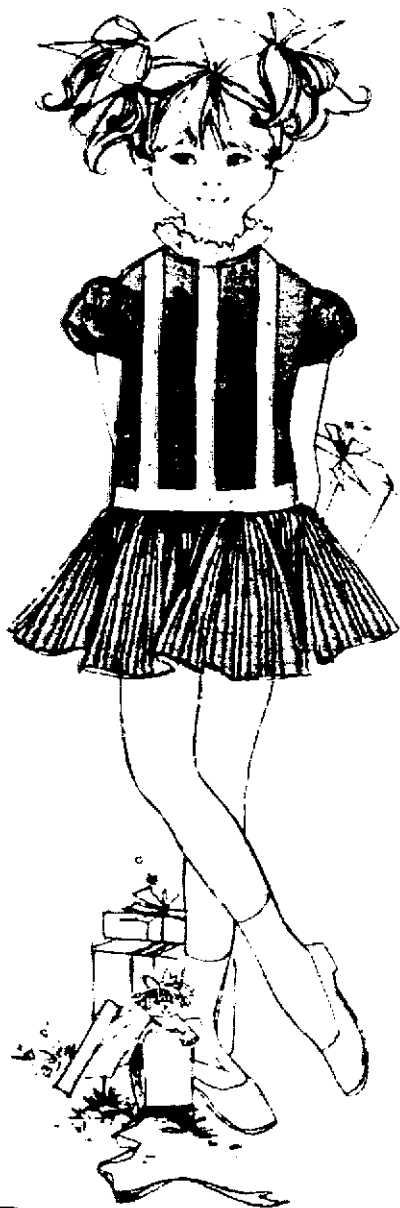

How to apply hand preparations properly? Experts at Pacquin recommend massaging hands so that you manipulate joints and make fingers and skin tingle.

Take a good blob of cream or lotion and roll it around between palms. Then rub it over hands and begin to smooth it over fingers as though applying a pair of tight gloves, until cream has disappeared into the skin. Flex fingers four or five times, as hard as you can, as though trying to stretch tight gloves. Then roll hands outwards, away from each other, in wider and wider circles, using wrists loosely.

Dainty inexpensive corsages can be purchased and stocked at home to pin on your holiday guests. They'll be flattered by your thoughtfulness!

INTERESTED IN TAPED STEREO MUSIC? A SHOPPING GUIDE

Music on magnetic tape has grown rapidly in the past few years to the point where it now accounts for more than 20 percent of all U.S. recorded music sales.

As more and more people have become interested in taped stereo music, some confusion has been generated over which recording format is best for which use. Prerecorded tapes are offered in four configurations: Open reel; 4-track cartridge; 8-track cartridge; and cassette.

If you're considering gifts in these lines, here's a handy shopping guide to today's tape formats:

Open Reel: The oldest of the four formats is the familiar reel of tape, normally seven inches in diameter. This is a popular music and recording medium for classical and high fidelity enthusiasts. Open reel tape recorders are often found

XMAS MOVIES CAN WIN AWARDS, TOO

Of course they can. If they are home movies.

The making—and screening—of home movies is fast becoming a Christmas tradition. A film of the day itself uses the camera in the best possible way: to provide a lasting record of happy times. That's what cameras are all about. And the tradition also includes the screening of films shot in previous years. (You can even film the family watching itself in last year's film!)

Argus, the camera people, offer some tips on making home movies at Christmas:

- 1) Have plenty of film on hand. These are moments you cannot recapture and you will probably use more than anticipated.
- 2) If the camera is to be a Christmas gift, present it the night before so that the lucky recipient has a chance to get acquainted with it. This becomes easier all the time, with such marvels as instant loading Super 8 film, built-in light meters and such. (Argus even offers an action light, like a TV camera, on some models.)
- 3) A movie camera, naturally, calls for a projector. A screen is important, but you can project on a blank wall if necessary.
- 4) In filming, don't cut your sequence short. The result will be jerky. Each scene should run at least seven or eight seconds. Count to fifteen as you shoot, and you will be about right.
- 5) Be sure to include all members of the family and all guests. That way you will have an irreplaceable album that traces the growth of the children, shows the funny hairdo Mabel had two years ago, etc.
- 6) Plan your sequences ahead.

But be on the alert for unexpected opportunities. Like all the Oscar-winning photographers!

in component stereo systems. Equipment advances such as automatic threading and reversing have made open reel more convenient to use than ever before.

Cartridges: 4-track and 8-track cartridges contain single endless loops of pre-recorded tape in a plastic case and are most commonly used in automobile players. The 8-track cartridge holds twice as much music as the 4-track and now has an expanding sales lead over the 4-track. Recording is difficult on the cartridge formats, so their greatest use is in the playback of recorded music.

Cassette: The newest entry in the prerecorded tape field, the cassette, is becoming the most popular. One-fourth the size of the cartridge, it also houses the tape in a plastic case. But that's the only similarity. The cassette holds two tiny reels of tape. The format offers both monaural and stereo playback and recording capabilities and is the most convenient because of its size, ease of operation and portability of equipment. Cassette player/recorders are found everywhere, in the automobile, the home, the school, and on the picnic grounds.

Music: The amount of music available on prerecorded magnetic tape is growing rapidly. Ampex Stereo Tapes, one of the largest producers of prerecorded stereo tapes, now offers more than 6,500 selections — pop, rock, folk, classical, and easy listening — from a catalog of some 70 recording labels. Prices range from four-selection micro cassettes listing at $1.98 to complete open-reel operas for $36.95.

For a recording medium that ten years ago appealed only to the audiophile, magnetic tape is rapidly becoming as commonplace in today's home music center as the record.

How About a 'Danish Army' Coat?

For men, Christmas will be a season of color if their friendly neighborhood clothiers have anything to say about it. And, of course, they do, since it is in their shops where the gals will find the new bold styles. Inevitably, women will be buying the gifts for their men. If Mom splurges on a Danish Army coat for Hubby, chances are he'll be delighted.

One rainwear manufacturer has come up with a coat that your man will think suits his dashing image. This winter white fashion will keep him warm and cozy with its 100% polyester pile lining that looks like fur! It also boasts all-male features: a huge collar to keep out the cold; bone buttons and tab front closings and stylish bellows pockets. A memorable gift! From Alligator Rainwear.

Best way to choose clothes for your man is to let him choose them. On your next shopping trip, why not take him along and remember his reactions when he passes the shop windows? If he makes remarks about a purple shirt, you can bet he wouldn't wear one. So don't buy it.

And if he inexplicably warms to a Danish Army coat, take the hint!

With Christmas a season of deep religious meaning, there is no more important gift at this time of year than fine religious jewelry.

Knits are wrinkle resistant, lightweight, and "breathe." You will see them during the holiday party season at social functions where once a coat and tie were considered the only acceptable mode of dress.

SHOPPING FOR A MAN'S APPAREL GIFT? LADIES, AVOID THESE SEVEN DEADLY SINS

Women invariably commit certain shopping sins when buying male apparel gifts for Christmas. Seven deadly sins, in fact. This fact was pointed out in a survey of numerous retailers who just happened to be men, of course.

The survey was conducted by Hart Schaffner & Marx, men's clothing manufacturer. It revealed the following feminine foibles:

Sin No. 1: Arriving at a store without exact sizes and attempting an educated guess. Buyer patter usually runs like this: "Oh, he's about the size of that man over there. Well, maybe a little larger . . . at least in the waist . . . and a little taller." Retailers report virtually every woman guesses husband to be several clothing sizes larger than he is. Women also become entrapped because their sizing system varies, in some cases, from that of men.

Sin No. 2: Asking a salesman's advice and then pointedly ignoring it when the advice fails to corroborate the woman's pre-determined ideas. This routine usually ends up with the woman saying: "I think I'll take this first one I picked out anyway."

Sin No. 3: Selecting a gift for the sole purpose of impressing the recipient. Such a buyer may make an impression on the man, all right, but not the kind she intended. And this type of gift often turns up at the return counter come December 26.

Sin No. 4: Ignorance of the various men's fashion images. Such buyers often select a shirt suitable for a natural-shoulder suit and give it to a gentleman who wears advance-fashion clothing. Or vice versa. Each look has its requisite furnishings.

Sin No. 5: Selecting a pattern, style, color, etc., which the woman prefers, ignoring completely what the gentleman himself might like. Sure-fire way to get a gift returned. Sample comments recommended for this type of sinning: "Oh, he'll wear anything I buy him" or "He simply doesn't know what to wear with what."

Sin No. 6: Applying women's-wear principles to men's wear, especially when it comes to pattern-mixing. Such women usually come up with comments like: "Stripes simply don't go with stripes so let's forget about this shirt-tie combination." Routine can easily be adapted to whatever pattern-mixing problem is at hand.

Sin No. 7: Selecting a gimmick gift that's good for a limited amount of conversational fun and that's all. In this same category falls the buyer who chooses an item that, while useful intrinsically, has no basic purpose for the recipient. Women who buy this type of gift generally justify it with statements like: "But he'll think it's cute."

The above all boils down to: remember sizes (and if you don't, stick with strictly sizeless gifts like jewelry, mufflers, ties, etc.) and forget your own personal preferences.

gift to enjoy before Christmas and thru' years

More families than ever will harvest their own Christmas trees, cut their own yule logs and gather their own mistletoe and holly this year.

America's do-it-yourself craze has been extended to include the holiday season.

An indication of this is the growing popularity of Christmas tree farms, where a family may select their own tree in its natural state.

Distinctive Silk Ties He'll Wear with Pride

His special treatment for Christmas may range from breakfast in bed to a variety of additions to his wardrobe, courtesy of sons, daughters and even the good wife.

In the male plumage department, a new necktie has long been a good bet for both giver and receiver. We're all aware of the marked changes in men's clothes in the past couple of years, and this includes men's furnishings.

The neckwear you'll see in the finer stores follows fashion trends . . . WIDE is the word! Mr. John of Beau Brummell has designed pure silk ties with the style-conscious man in mind.

Look for these ties: a 4" woven tick and pick all-over figure . . . about five dollars; 5" large multi-stripe . . . about six-fifty; 4" Club-tie . . . about five dollars; and 5" small stripes, about six-fifty.

Good ties are those that

MANY CHOICES .. FORMALWEAR

Men's formal wear for Fall have never been more interesting! While black is back as the favorite for evening, everything else reflects today's fresh approach to men's fashions.

Styles are varied and imaginative, with the six-button double-breasted designs causing a stir. Jackets are shaped, and lapels are taking on more generous proportions. Fabrics, too, will add a note of individuality, with velvet stealing the show.

But, while black is a wear-with-all classic, some houses will feature formal separates in shades of gold, silver, green, red and blue. Color will make a big splash, too, in formal accessories such as shirts in gold, mulberry and dark blue, and big colorful bowties with matching pocket squares. It's the Season of the Peacock!

spend as much time around the neck as on the rack, and there seems to be a good share of these ready for Christmas 1969.

take Baby along!

Not so many years ago, it was almost impossible to consider taking a young child along on a family trip. There was no running water, and kettles had to be heated for an infant's bath. Facilities for diapers were non-existent. (Even weighing an infant was done at the local butcher's, with baby slung like a side of meat from a strap).

Nowadays, even tiny infants can fare well on an outing if mothers take the right precautions, advise the makers of Doston baby products. Before dressing the youngster to go "over the hill to Grandma's," make sure he is freshly diapered and well powdered. If diaper rash is a problem, experts recommend applying a dedicated ointment to sore spots immediately, to heal irritation as fast as possible. Baby will be happier if he's comfortable, and so will the other members of the family.

Disposable diapers help make trips easier and are a modern solution to hygiene and space problems.

If you're motoring with Baby, try slipping a pillowcase over his blanket. It helps keep the blanket in place, but most important, keeps the blanket fuzz off you, especially if you're wearing dark-colored clothes for travel.

A gift of a slim, modern fine leather wallets, ladies — perhaps with a matching key case — is a great way to show your man how much you appreciate his new fashionable self.

EMPTY BOTTLES AND PAPER CUPS reveal unsuspected charm, with the addition of sparkling gift wraps. Instructions for an original Christmas decoration (see article accompanying these pictures) have been provided by the Norcross Design Studio.

XMAS MOVIES CAN WIN AWARDS, TOO

Of course they can. If they are home movies.

The making—and screening—of home movies is fast becoming a Christmas tradition. A film of the day itself uses the camera in the best possible way: to provide a lasting record of happy times. That's what cameras are all about. And the tradition also includes the screening of films shot in previous years. (You can even film the family watching itself in last year's film!)

Argus, the camera people, offer some tips on making home movies at Christmas:

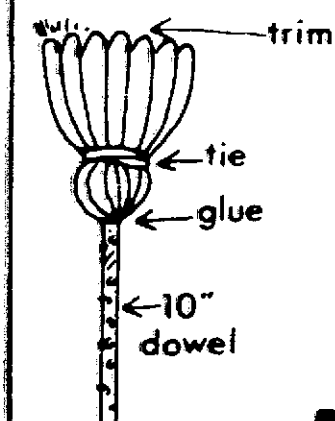

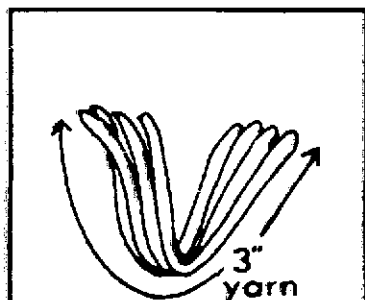

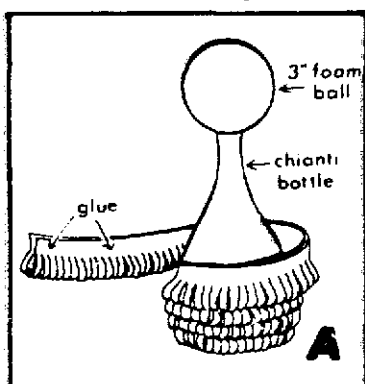

1) Have plenty of film on hand. These are moments you cannot recapture and you will probably use more than anticipated.

2) If the camera is to be a Christmas gift, present it the night before so that the lucky recipient has a chance to get acquainted with it. This becomes easier all the time, with such marvels as instant loading Super 8 film, built-in light meters and such. (Argus even offers an action light, like a TV camera, on some models.)

3) A movie camera, naturally, calls for a projector. A screen is important, but you can project on a blank wall if necessary.

4) In filming, don't cut your sequence short. The result will be jerky. Each scene should run at least seven or eight seconds. Count to fifteen as you shoot, and you will be about right.

5) Be sure to include all members of the family and all guests. That way you will have an irreplaceable album that traces the growth of the children, shows the funny hairdo Mabel had two years ago, etc.

COSMETICS . . . Shoulder-length hair suddenly adds glitter, glow and gilt of the barrett and hair band. Faces gleam with health and cleanliness underneath, and then the sheerest foundations and coloring sticks and gels to bring out the glow. Eyeliner is out for the moment, and only the most natural looking of lashes. Mascara takes center stage with 3 coats in three different colors making the difference.

MR. SNOWMAN YOU CAN MAKE IT, YOURSELF

The thought behind this gift is, obviously, bigger than the gift itself. Who could resist the appeal of Mr. Snowman, a delightful package trim or buffet ornament? (See picture accompanying this article).

The Norcross Design Studio suggests this amusing and inexpensive club project for Christmas bazaars, since it is convenient to cut and assemble several units at one time.

The gift wrap materials listed in the instructions that follow are sufficient to make ten snowmen. Norcross yarn, wrap and tissue are featured. Club members can assist the project by collecting found objects, such as paper cups and florist pins, in advance.

Mr. Snow Man

MATERIALS:

- 1 pkg. "Pow Pink Designer Yarn" — 50T 383
- 1 pkg. "Super-Plaid" gift wrap — 50R 48-1
- 1 pkg. "Spectacolor" gift wrap — 50R 43-1
- 1 pkg. "White Tissue" — 29R 30-1
- 1 Chianti or similar shape bottle (approx. 10" high)
- glue
- 3" foam ball
- 2 pearl top florist pins
- 2 red 3/4" Christmas beads
- 1 (6"x6"x2") box
- 10" dowel
- paper cup (3 1/2" high 3" diameter)
- cardboard

DIRECTIONS:

1. Remove straw cover from Chianti bottle. Cut hole in 3" foam ball. Glue neck of bottle in hole.
2. Cut white tissue into 5"x30" strips. Fold to 2 1/2"x30". Clip along fold to 1/2" of cut edge. Reverse fold and glue 1/2" solid edges together. Starting at bottom of bottle, wind and glue strips of loops onto bottle and foam ball. (Sketch A)
3. HAT — Cover paper cup with "Spectacolor." BRIM — Cut 4" diameter cardboard disc. Cover both sides with "Spectacolor." Glue hat to brim, and brim to head.
4. EYES — Insert florist pins through red bead and into head.
5. BROOM — Cover 10" dowel with "Spectacolor." Make brush end from four 3" lengths of "Pow Pink" yarn as illustrated. Glue or pin "broom" to snowman. (Sketch B)
6. BOW TIE — Tie "Pow Pink" yarn

REVVING UP THE ENGINE on his Tyke Plane on Christmas morning, this lucky pre-schooler makes ready to take off on an imaginary voyage. The plane, which doubles as snack table or TV seat, has been play-tested and recommended for children from 2 to 4 years old

'ride 'em' toys for pre-schoolers fill basic needs

Don't be surprised if your pre-schooler's Christmas list includes an airplane, a truck or a horse. The fascination of children for any and all transportation toys is as old as history. It represents one of a child's basic needs — the need to move about, and explore his world from many different perspectives.

The earliest transportation toys were probably carts of some sort, replicas of the larger vehicles their fathers used to

- around "neck" ending in a bow.
- 7. Glue a strip of "Pow Pink" yarn around hat brim.
- 8. Wrap a 6"x6" box with "Super-Plaid." Tie with "Pow Pink" yarn. Stand snowman on box.

transport goods and produce from one place to another. But as technology advanced so did the nature of toys.

Preschoolers today watch westerns on TV and listen to stories of men who flew to the moon; they see trucks, tractors, and airplanes in pictures or "for real". Youngsters imagine themselves into similar situations and wish for the machinery — toys scaled to their world — to pretend the same activities themselves.

For parents or grandparents playing Santa to a preschooler this year, filling a request like that will be easy thanks to some imaginative transportation toys, both new and classics. For example, Playskool offers several.

There's a Tyke Plane, for example, that's safe for the youngest pilot. Made of wood with special casters and blow-molded wheels, it maneuvers easily in any direction. The Tyke Plane also doubles as a play or snack table or as a TV seat for a junior pilot.

Another new toy is the Tyke Pack Horse, a friendly little pinto with a roomy compartment under the seat for stashing all the gear a preschooler will need on his journey. Both the Tyke Plane and Tyke Pack Horse are recommended for children from 2 to 4.

Other favorite "ride 'em" toys include the Tyke Truck, suggested for preschoolers from 1 1/2 to 3 1/2, and the Tot Tractor, for youngsters from 2 to 5. The truck features high rising chrome plated handle bars with plastic hand grips, a plastic windshield and beep-beep horn. Behind the saddle seat there's a rumble trunk for hauling other toys. The tractor appeals to budding farmers or mechanics. The gearshift is really a wrench, the motor exhaust, a screwdriver. There are other tools for emergency repairs, and spark plugs are removable for periodic "cleanings."

Versatile playtools like these help a child explore and expand his world and develop his skills. And family "Santas" will know that the transportation toy that delights their special preschooler on Christmas morning aids him in learning-while-playing throughout the year.

FIVE CENTURIES OF CHRISTMAS TIMING

Imagine yourself as a Christmas shopper in the Fifteenth Century. The disadvantages only begin with not having "wheels" to take you where you want to shop. Let's say you have decided to present that special person in your life with the gift of a timepiece. Do you know what it would have been? A portable sundial!

Now you progress to the Sixteenth Century. A Yuletide gift of time for your loved one might have been a clock if you were very wealthy, but this is before the pendulum was introduced, and you would have needed a sundial along with it to keep the clock reasonably on time!

The first watch was also invented in the Sixteenth Century. It was not exactly a watch as you know it today. Referred to as a Musk-Ball the watch of the 1500s was spherical in shape, awkwardly large, and pierced to give off the scent of perfumed musk which was carried in the case. The noblemen and dandies of that era, who could afford watches, wore them on chains around their necks and apparently liked the idea of perfume. If Musk-Balls were still in vogue, you could probably forego the gift wrap and just camouflage the present by placing it among the ornaments on the branch of the Christmas tree!

Watches of the Sixteenth Century, though still a great novelty, offered many more conveniences than their fore-runners. To tell time in the dark, tiny raised knobs above each numeral enabled the owner to "feel the hour" without lighting a candle. Then came the addition of a minute hand in 1675.

By the Eighteenth Century you could have given a watch as a Christmas present with a second hand. This feature had been widely introduced to give doctors an accurate means of measuring the pulse. Your present, of course, would have also included a key for winding.

You could not have given a watch for the wrist as a Christmas present until the early part of the Nineteenth century. The first wristwatch was developed for soldiers in the front lines during World War I because the routine of unbuttoning the watch pocket and taking out the watch to see the time was inconvenient.

Throughout the Twentieth Century, technologists have worked towards perfecting the delicate mechanism of the watch for greater accuracy and convenience.

Since the Fifteenth Century, time has certainly come a long way! Today, for Christmas, 1969, you can give your loved one the ultimate in accurate timekeeping — an electric. Timex makes a beauty. It never has to be wound, on or off the wrist. Just turn it on, it will keep accurate time for a year, powered by a tiny replaceable energy cell. The price for the men's electric Timex is only twenty-five dollars, and for the Timex Calendar electric . . . only thirty dollars. The electrics come in an assortment of styles, with sweep-second hands, in white or yellow cases and with stainless steel backs.

If there is a woman in your life who likes to make every minute count, the manufacturer offers the perfect Christmas suggestion — a ladies' electric wristwatch priced at fifty dollars. It comes in a graceful shield-shape case of 10K rolled gold plate (white or yellow).

And because this isn't the Fifteenth Century, you won't have to depend too much on "wheels" to help you find an Electric! The Timex and other famous timepieces are available at watch counters of leading stores throughout the country.

The only gift that can put us in a millionaire's bracket is the gift of ourselves, of our time and our effort. After all, any hour of the day is as precious to us as to the wealthiest man in the world.

WATCH-FUL MRS. SANTA. Guess what he's getting for Christmas! It is an electric watch, a year-round remembrance that he will never have to remember to wind. Traditionally styled, this handsome timepiece features a luminous dial, sweep-second hand and black strap. Yet, for all its efficiency and good looks, it is priced at twenty-five dollars. Mrs. Santa wears a ladies' electric in 10K rolled gold plate (fifty dollars) . . . both by Timex.

In the face of the ever increasing cost of living it is good to report a gift item for Christmas helpful to the balancing of the family budget. While the idea isn't old, pipe smoking can save upwards of $50.00 annually per pipe smoker. This is the estimate reported by the Pipe and Tobacco Council of America in suggesting you buy pipes and tobacco as Christmas gifts for the men or man on your list.

According to the Council's executive director, Jerry Nagler, the rise and fall of the Nation's economy can be plotted by the rise and fall of pipe and smoking tobacco sales. It is an historic fact that heads of families turn to a pipe during periods of economic stress for the nation.

However, the gift of a pipe or smoking tobacco offers quite a few additional aids for the gift giver. It is really the opening wedge toward the solution of all gift problems since a pipe smoker will always want another pipe, more tobacco, pipe tools, humidors, racks, pipe lighters, pouches, pipe ash trays or any of hundreds of available items.

Most important though, according to the Council, is the initial period of pipe smoking for the recipient of your gift. No longer is it absolutely essential for the smoker to break in his pipe, but rather his habits. A pipe is now owned, or has been tried by 80 percent of the male population. The stick-to-itiveness necessary for its proper enjoyment is a problem for most men.

The Council therefore advises an initial period of moderation. There is also the possibility of initial "tongue" bite at the outset. However, in practically every case these problems disappear as soon as the new smoker realizes the problem and begins the slow, relaxing, contemplative method of enjoying his pipe.

Once the pipe smoker breaks into his pipe, he then begins to experience the maximum of smoking enjoyment. In addition the economy of his choice will soon become apparent to the family budget.

Many pipe smokers can smoke a pipeful for as long as an hour, but more important to the length of puffing time is the lasting satisfaction of a pipeful. Although most smoking tobaccos can be purchased from as little as 20 cents per pouch package, there are premium blends available. If economy is a prime motivation then there are many excellent tobacco blends available at the lower price. The premium blends sell from 40 to 60 cents and these too are an economical buy since most smokers will find these pouches last for a number of days between purchases.

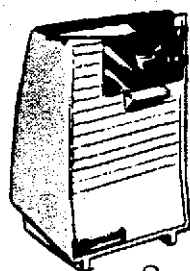

So if the men on your list are trying to economize, or if you prefer to buy the perfect "starter" gift, buy a pipe, or even a two-pipe set, some tobacco and watch your gift buying problems go up in smoke.

Give Her a 'Now' Fashion with a Beautiful Future

If she's an active, on-the-go gal, and likes her fashions that are new and now, you'll be glad to hear that you can not only give her sportswear that's especially distinctive this Christmas... but also with a natural, comfortable look. Designers from New York, London, Los Angeles, Rome and Paris have made this natural look the leader. For example...

The straight leg pants, the long skinny sweater (whether belted or unbelted), the loose-fitting nylon blouse, the vest and the tunic top pantsuits will be leading the parade. The long skirt will soon be IN. The hood that accents the face but doesn't hide it, a positive "must."

Elephant leg pants have had a bad rap, but now popular is the straight leg, ranging from 20 to 26 inches in width. The tunic top crept into the fashion scene at a snail's pace, but now that it has grown in length, it has grown in popularity.

"The rib knit pantunic is predicted to be the attention-getter for the coming season," say designers at Jantzen Inc. "The tunic top will be long enough so it can be worn as a mini and still short enough to be worn as the top to a pantsuit." The pantsuit generation will be happy to know that they're still "with it" in shiny knits for evening-wear too. The most popular will be accented with gold silvered threads.

Accessorizing is an important factor this year... the word is the Scarf. The longer the better. It will be worn around the head, the neck, the waist, the wrist, the upper arm and believe it or not, the knee.

Have you ever heard of the turtle-sock? It's a wool ribbed knit that starts at the neck and keeps going, and going and going all the way down to the tip of the toe. Presumably, the idea originated from the old long-johns. What next? Perhaps a turtle-sock with a trap door!

Vibrant and Spirited new Fragrance

Matching a gift to a woman's personality is a perennial problem at this time of year.

Several decades ago, one man found a unique answer to the dilemma. Francois Coty, founder of one of the leading fragrance houses, had certain advantages, of course, and he used them well.

Blending rare oils and essences, the expert perfumer developed a totally new fragrance and presented it to his wife. No other woman ever wore the exclusive scent.

This Christmas, any man can play the part of Santa in a somewhat similar way, for Coty's newest perfume was created solely for the American woman. Just like the New World woman, the fragrance doesn't fit into traditional categories. It's a modern species of scent with a special light sparkle that the perfumers call Elan.

put your best face forward for Christmas

You will want to put your best face forward for the Holidays, whether you are booked solid with parties or simply staying home for a family affair.

Women spend hours and small fortunes at beauty salons specializing in facials, but it is possible to give yourself one easily and pleasantly within your own home, in minutes.

Pick a time when you can relax without interruption. Wear a comfortable bathrobe and select a suitable table to work at, in good light. Have at hand a couple of bowls of tepid water, a terry washcloth, a couple of face towels and some cotton.

Now you are ready to begin your treatment.

Because the key to an effective skin care program is moisture, use cosmetics that bring nature's moisturizer, pure water, to your skin and hold it there.

Begin with a thorough cleansing. Using a milky, liquid cleanser, with upward and outstrokes massage a small amount into the skin of face and neck, then moisten fingertips in a bowl of water and continue to massage. Remove with a wet washcloth rather than paper tissues which tend to scratch the skin.

Next, a freshener removes any trace of cleanser. Though refreshingly cool, it contains absolutely no drying alcohol and leaves the skin fresh and supple. Saturate a pad of cotton with the liquid and stroke over face and neck, giving careful attention to the hairline, around the nose, creases and laugh lines.

Now indulge in a Masque de Menthe enriched with vitalizing protein. Recline with feet elevated or relax in a warm bath while the mask is doing its work. Scoop out a spatula-full of the cream and smooth over face and neck, then rest quietly for about 10 minutes. Remove it with warm water and washcloth. You will find something very nice has happened to your complexion... It has become radiant, fine pored and velvety.

The next step is application of a moisturizer which actually "cradles" moisture on the skin all through the day. With applicator wand from the bottle, a dot to forehead, cheeks, chin, nose and throat. Smooth over face and throat with moistened fingertips. Remoisten as frequently as desired and until the skin feels coolly smooth and the cream disappears.

When you begin moisturizing care, you cannot expect to bring your skin back to a normal condition with only one application. Consistent use of the skin care products over the weeks beforehand, will ensure a lovelier you over the Holiday.

Share your Christmas with the less fortunate.

Christmas Stamp Due In November

Subjects of U.S. Christmas postage stamps sometimes come under fire from persons militantly protesting use of religious paintings, etc. For 1969, authorities have evidently come up with what they hope is an attractive compromise between these people and others who would like to see more of the religious element in motifs of Christmas.

The 1969 Christmas stamp will reproduce an unknown artist's painting, Winter Sunday in Norway, Maine. Pictured are townspeople arriving on foot and in a sleigh at a small church. The initial issue of the 6-cent stamp will be at Christmas, Fla., on Nov. 3.

Your boy will have a better Christmas if he is a member of a Boys' Club. Is he?

FASCINATING! Now limitless new adventures in intricate design are within the instant reach of anyone who can hold a pen. Super Spirograph removes all the restrictions of size and shape for Spiromania fans by providing an ingenious new variety of curved and straight pieces that snap together to the basic Spirograph equipment — the unique instant art form, based on precision meshing of gear wheels, rings, racks and super parts. Anyone who can hold a pen can create millions of colorful, amazingly intricate designs immediately. By Kenner.

HERE'S AN INGENUOUS new way to keep children happily entertained. Play 'N Show Phonograph Projector is a portable, battery-operated unit, designed to be trouble-free. A young child can put on the picture platter by himself and close the top. It plays and shows. The color slides are permanently attached to the phonograph record. As the story progresses, the picture changes automatically at intervals. By Kenner.

Looking for A New-Idea Centerpiece?

"Looking for a new idea for a holiday centerpiece? Have a small budget but a really big Christmas gift in it? Want a special project for your club's annual bazaar?"

The answers to all these problems are to be found in "The Paper Boutique," a booklet set as easy to make party and craft ideas using deep-color Boutique tissues. Full-color photographs illustrate ideas in this new 32-page booklet, and there are complete instructions, many with diagrams, to ensure a successful project.

Three of the holiday decorations included are an unusual methsac cage, an elegant three-tiered Christmas tree, and a braided Christmas wreath.

Gift suggestions could include the lovely and unusual items made from starched tissues — a balloon topiary, a colorful bottle vase for holding bud branches or flowers, or a Boutique picture. These projects are especially fun for children. Other projects for children—to make for themselves or friends—are the craft items from the upright tissue boxes: Olga octopus, a giraffe, daisies on a straw, or a party or play hat.

To add a special touch to your gifts, there are gift-wrap ideas too, and there's no end to the variations you can create.

For bazaar projects there are ingenious ideas using tissue boxes and covers to create desk and drawer organizers, vanity boxes, and compartmented pencil holders. A really attractive and useful novelty is the wig or hat stand, built on a plastic foam base.

Many other year-round ideas include centerpieces, flowers, and party decorations. For a copy of this delightful new booklet, which costs just 50¢, write "The Paper Boutique", Kimberly-Clark Corporation, Box 551-P.R., Neenah, Wisconsin 54956. And if you want a special extra gift for a friend who loves to "make things", why not order one for her, too?

Double-duty for holiday shopping bags: On Christmas morning, have two ready for action — one to hold the paper and ribbon you want to keep, one to hold the scraps to be thrown away. Beforehand tuck away in one of the shopping bags a whisk broom and dustpan and a bottle of pine cleaner with a cellulose sponge for instant clean-up.

IN TOYS '69 ACTION IS THE NAME OF THE GAME

Toyland, 1969, is full of new ideas that will broaden children's interests and add new dimensions to playroom fun, reports Robert L. Steiner, vice president of a toy-manufacturing firm.

Most unusual is Dune Buggy, a get-in-and-ride sportscar that turns on a dime and can be operated indoors and out. It's equipped with a rechargeable, sealed alkaline battery, the first dry cell to have no water or acid to spill. Previously, drive-in cars had batteries that were out in a few hours or lead acid storage batteries subject to leakage.

New in homemaking is the Betty Crocker Model Easy Bake Oven, smartly styled in turquoise and simulated wood grain which runs on two electric light bulbs. Junior cooks make delectable goodies with scaled-down versions of famous Betty Crocker cakes, brownies and frosting mixes. It's safety-engineered to protect little fingers every step of the way.

Super Spirograph provides limitless adventures in intricate design for anyone who can wield a pen. Enthralling new super parts are added to the basic Spirograph equipment — the instant art-form that has enthralled millions.

"These games and toys provide outlets for young, restless spirits, and tend to channel energies productively", says Steiner, vice-president of Kenner.

Most unusual new action game is Knock-Off which keys competition to frenzied flipping of two panic buttons by each contestant. Object of play is to move Big Bopper a grinning 6 armed ball-shaped robot to knock off your opponent's Fall Guy before he can knock yours off.

Fitting Gift for a Lady

Will it fit? That's one question sure to take a little joy out of holiday giving.

Until just recently, selecting hosiery in exactly the right size was of special concern to gift givers. Traditionally, stockings have been designed in a choice of both foot sizes and lengths, and any one style might offer 15 or more different size choices. Confusing indeed!

This Christmas, however, hosiery goes to great lengths. Beauty Mist has designed a new super-stretch stocking called ConForm, that molds itself to a wide range of leg sizes. Now there's no problem to ponder. The stocking comes in a size that stretches to fit all leg shapes from 8½" short to 11 long.

The stockings are packed in tiny triangular boxes, an interesting shape that will make a good stocking-stuffer. Or for the special lady on your Christmas list, there's a colorful hexagonal package of six pairs.

"SEE WHAT I MADE, MOMMY!" Here are Donner and Blitzen, paper reindeer, made with every-day articles such as cotton batting, brown paper bags and importantly, that versatile friend of the family Q-Tips Cotton Swabs.

DECORATIONS... FUN AND EASY

Children being children, the highlight of a holiday party is the loot. But cost doesn't impress children. The loot has to look like a present but not like the one they got at the last Christmas party.

For your children's party this year why not let paper reindeer tote a variety of small gifts?

To make these traditional Santa Claus helpers, all you need are some brown paper bags from the supermarket, a roll of Christmas cotton batting, ribbon, "Q-Tips" cotton swabs for the antlers, and odds and ends of beads and sparkly stars. Fill the bag with small gifts, balloons, whistles, hubbles pipes, candy, yo-yo's, that kind of thing, then fold the sides.

To make the reindeer faces just cut three inch triangles of cotton batting and glue it to a bit of shirt cardboard for stiffness. Bits of paper will make the eyes. The antlers are "Q-Tips" swabs. To make an antler, glue one swab to the reindeer head, then snip smaller pieces of the cotton swabs and glue in place as branches. Use a tiny red Christmas ball as the nose.

Cut oblong paws about 2½ inches long from the cotton batting. Glue to cardboard and attach a cotton swab to form the foreleg and hoof as the picture shows.

To add festive touches to the brown bag reindeer, scatter stars and sequins. String tiny beads as a harness.

Toys are the tools with which children learn.

DO YOUR DRESSES SAY 'PARTY' AND YOUR HANDS SAY 'WORK'? TAKE CARE!

The clothes a lady wears on party occasions — and the skin they reveal — should look soft, feminine and velvety.

But how will your skin look during this year's holiday festivities — especially your hands? There's a good chance that they'll look like complete wrecks!

Gift wrapping, cooking, cleaning, washing and decorating — the endless chores of holiday preparation — leave little time for the fastidious details of personal grooming. Add the usual damp of cold weather outdoors and dry heat indoors, and most women wind up with hands that feel rough as the bark of a Yule log.

Don't think that you can avoid crepe-paper skin by plunging hands into every kind of task without protection! It just won't work. Industrial workers whose hands are exposed to grease, grime or chemicals wear protective creams and rubber gloves. Who says that a homemaker or mother, whose hands are in water and detergents endlessly and rushes outdoors and in, can be considered different?

Hands are busy-bodies, but the skin on them is exceptionally dry, producing almost no oil of its own. So do resolve to wear rubber gloves whenever possible. If they're lined, they go on and off easily.

The Pacquin people, who are experts on hand care, explain that the greatest reason for unappealing hands is a hurry-up, last minute approach to caring for them. Many women remember to use hand cream or lotion only once in a while, or after hands are in unsightly and painful condition.

Stop Hurry-Up Tactics

Fortunately, the skin on hands responds quickly to good treatment. That's why experts recommend a heavy application of hand cream before you retire for the night. Hand cream will really work for you while you sleep! It not only nourishes skin, but smooths and softens cuticles, too. For maximum results, try wearing a pair of inexpensive, loose white cotton gloves to bed after applying the cream on hands.

Feet Like It, Too

And if the backs of your heels get dry, and the tops of feet feel rough or look dry and scaly, rub on some hand cream. Here's another good tip: Results are speeded if you put on light-colored cotton socks after the cream is applied, and wear them while sleeping.

During the days, your weapon is also hand cream or hand lotion. Reach for your hand-care treatment, advise the Pacquin experts, as automatically and as often as you reach for

THE STOCKINGS . . . the subtly shiny sheers, the jeweled sheer panty-hose and knee-highs . . . the soft slinky textures . . . printed, patterned and jeweled bodysuits and body stockings . . . jumpsuits.

Now's the time to show your ingenuity — your talent for selecting the "perfect" gift.

a towel after washing your hands.

Don't make it difficult for yourself. Keep an emollient cream or lotion in the obvious places like the bath, kitchen, laundry room and on the bedside table.

Once a day, in the morning or at night, also massage cream or lotion over your upper arms and into your elbows.

Then let the holiday arrive. You'll probably be the smoothest girl of all!

Imagine! A Whole Wardrobe of Fashion Hose

New gift packages of panty hose offer prime inspiration for harried Santas looking for exciting gifts for fashion-minded belles.

For a bountiful Santa, there's an elegant canvas suitcase gaily striped in red and white; It has compartments filled with nine pairs of panty hose in varied colors, reports Betty Curry, fashion director of Burlington. There's a new jewel box gift pack that's filled with four pairs of panty hose in varied hues.

For the opulent gift there are jeweled body stockings, a series of Heavenly Bodies, reports the fashion director — each with an astrologically-oriented name such as Jupiter's Bride, Celestial Cover and Orion's Belt. (Fun to give, and to get!)

New Bikini Style: New styles in leg fashions add interest for gift buyers. A bikini style panty hose, for example. This innovation by Burlington-Cameo has the reinforced panty area knit in diagonal, giving for the first time the high side panty brief effect with smooth all-in-one construction without seams.

There's an opaque Loop-the-Loop style in the stocking category. Tiny hooks knitting the top (welt) attach to the garter tabs of any foundation garment, thus eliminating garters and garter bulge.

Helpful 'Traditions'

A striking centerpiece for your Christmas table can be easily made. Just heap balls of blue and silver, or your favorite colors, on an oblong platter. Soften the base of 2 white candles and stick them at each end of the platter.

Dip sprays of your favorite evergreen into white paint, dust with artificial snow, and arrange around a platter heaping with balls. Let the pointed sprays extend several inches at each end of the arrangement for a graceful effect.

Holly symbolizes joy and merriment; laurel for triumph; rosemary for protection and mistletoe for good will.
